CLEMENTY ASKED
FOR NEWT CASEYPetition is Sent Governor Ralston
Asking That he be Allowed
His Freedom

PHYSICIANS EXAMINE HIM

Judge Sparks Says Community Does
Not Want Him Inhumanly Punished.

A petition requesting clemency for Newton Casey, convicted "blind tiger" operator, was forwarded to Governor Ralston today. The petition contained many names, including several county officials. Along with the petition was statements from three local physicians in which it was pointed out that they believed Casey should be given his freedom as the confinement of the county jail was fast taking his health.

Casey is serving two sentences. One is on a "blind tiger" charge and the other is for associating. He was fined $290 and given 110 days on the "blind tiger" charge and was fined $90 and given 90 days on the associating charge. The fines in these cases are accumulative, but the jail sentences are not. Casey is unable to pay the fines. The fines alone, if he is compelled to lay them out would make a total of 380 days, to which added the largest jail sentence, 110 days, would give him a total of 490 days in jail, or nearly two years.

The petition was presented to Judge Sparks this morning. It was stated to the court that Casey is in ill health. Judge Sparks appointed Dr. Lowell M. Green, Dr. J. T. Paxton and Dr. H. V. Logan to make an examination of Casey and report to the court. The physicians reported that they found Casey in poor condition and believed that the long confinement in the county jail would take away his health entirely.

Judge Sparks would not sign the petition asking for clemency, but stated in a letter to Governor Ralston that the community did not desire that Casey be inhumanly punished and that if the governor saw fit to release him advised that he not issue a complete pardon for the convicted man, but that he simply be let out on a parole in order that the court would have some strings to him.

Judge Sparks' position on the matter was clearly stated. He did not want Casey unhumanly punished, but believed that the ends of justice would not be met if Casey was given a complete pardon. For this reason he asked the governor, if he acted favorably on the petition, to place Casey on parole.

CASE UNDER ADVISEMENT

Judge Sparks took the case of William Cross against Alvan Moor, to foreclose a mechanic's lien, demanding $200, under advisement following the completion of the testimony. The case involves the drilling of a well by Cross on the Moor farm. He refused to pay for it because the water was not clear and Cross took out a lien.

An inventory and a statement of the assets and liabilities of the United States Board and Paper company of Carthage was filed this morning by the receiver, Edgar Hill. The inventory and statement was approved by the court. This is the first court proceedings in the case since the receiver was appointed.

RECALLS OPENING
OF RAILROAD HEREInteresting Piece of Paper Received
by Mrs. Edwin Lee From Her Sister in Missouri.

GUESTS WERE FROM MADISON

Mrs. Lillian Armstrong of Jackson, Mo., formerly of this city, has sent an interesting bit of old Rushville history to her sister, Mrs. Edwin Lee of Jersey City. It is a program for a railroad excursion from Madison to this city and is believed to have been for the occasion when the old J. M. & I. railroad was opened between this city and Madison.

The only date on the bill is June 14, the year not being stated. According to the bill the excursion from Madison arrived here at three-twenty in the afternoon and Rushville planned a big demonstration for the visitors. It is a noticeable fact that all the men mentioned as assistant marshals of the day are now dead. The exercises were held in the court house yard. L. Sexton was the marshal of the day and John S. Campbell was the chairman on arrangements. Joel Wolfe gave the principal address, according to the hand bill. The assistant marshals were Rue Pugh, Henry Dixon, P. W. Rush, Ed P. Schlater, A. F. Woodcock.

Mrs. Armstrong found the bill among some old relics and sent it here to her sister to see if it could be figured out as to what the celebration was.

D.A.R. MEMBERS
SIGN PLEDGEAgree to Buy and Demand Only Those Things That Are Made in America.

IS NATIONAL ORGANIZATION

Movement is Started Here for First Time—Delegates to Conference Elected.

Only "made in America" products will be used in many Rushville homes as a result of the movement started yesterday at the regular meeting of the D. A. R. The movement has been on foot for some time but was started in Rushville only yesterday by the members of the D. A. R. The meeting was held at the home of Miss Leonora Norris in North Morgan street.

All members signed the pledge and became members of the Woman's National Made in U. S. A. League. The purpose of the league, which is an organization without dues, is to promote American interests. The pledge is as follows: "I pledge myself for the welfare of our country while the war lasts, to demand and buy everything, when ever possible, 'Made in U. S. A.' and urge my friends to do likewise."

The D. A. R. members hope to induce others to join the league and it is believed that the organization will grow rapidly. That the women are in sympathy with the movement for "America First" was shown by the manner in which the pledge was received. The meeting yesterday was an important one. The delegates elected to the state conference to be held next fall at Terre Haute were Mrs. Will Dill, Mrs. Sarah Giffin and Mrs. C. H. Gilbert. The alternates are Mrs. D. D. Vanosdol, Mrs. Joe Amos and Mrs. Wilford Grindle. Mrs. John Tittsworth and Miss Emma Cassidy.

As this was the first meeting since the D. A. R. congress in Washington a complete report of the congress was given by Mrs. Will Dill. The report told in full the business and social end of the convention.

Miss Emma Cassidy read an interesting paper on "Women of the Revolution." Miss Alice Norris gave an interesting discussion of "Prominent Women of the D. A. R."

SUIT TO COLLECT
JUDGMENT FILEDWalter Smith Asks That Joseph Stern be Cited to Appear and Answer Concerning Property.

THE AMOUNT INVOLVED IS $70

Walter E. Smith, administrator of the estate of Edith B. Smith, filed suit this morning against Joseph Stern, asking for an order of the court to require Stern to appear and show cause why a judgment rendered against him should not be applied. The present suit is the outgrowth of a suit on a lease brought against Joseph Stern when he moved his store from the Smith room in West Second street. In this case the court found for Smith in the sum of $70 and according to the complaint filed this morning he has been unable to collect the judgment. It is alleged that Stern has property to the value of $1,500 and that he unjustly refuses to pay the judgment. He is asked to appear and answer concerning his property.

For May Than Several Months
Previous—Figures Given

Rush county had on deposit in the various banks of the county at the close of business May 31 a total of $351,720.27. This amount is not as large as for the month of April and this is accounted for by the payment of a large amount of gravel road bonds that came due in the month of May.

At one time the total was greater because of the spring payment of taxes but by the close of business on May 31 the amount fell off because of the road bonds. That the amount was greater is shown by the total amount of interest the county received during the month. The interest totaled $647.15. The interest for the month of April was $423.90. These figures are shown in the financial report of County Treasurer Williams to the board of finance.

RUSSIA SAID TO BE CAUSE

Berlin, June 5.—The allies have failed in their efforts to induce Roumania to follow Italy into the war. Russia and Roumania have been unable to come to terms and private advises received here today indicate that the danger of this country invading Austria has at least been temporarily removed.

Russia, according to reports brought here refused to accede to some of Roumania territorial demands. The pressure of England, France and finally of the Italian king failed to move the czar and Roumania it is reported has ended the negotiations.

"The defeat of the attempt to get Roumania in the war is greter than the capture of Przemysl," said a German paper today.

The kaiser had planned the trip by motor to celebrate the birthday of the Austrian Arch-Duke. His arrival on the heels of the Austro-German victory at Przemysl aroused the greatest enthusiasm.

At a luncheon attended by many Austrian and German officials the kaiser proposed a toast to the success of the combined armies.

48 HOURS TO REACH BERLIN

With German Crisis Out of Way

President Will Turn His Attention to Mexico

(By United Press.)

Washington, June 5.—The American demand on Germany will go forward probably tonight. The complete draft of the document was approved by President Wilson before he left the Whitehouse this afternoon for his Saturday automobile ride. It was taken to the state department by a confidential messenger; formally approved by Secretary Bryan, whose signature it bears and immediately turned over to the code experts to be reduced to cipher for transmission to Berlin.

It was stated that the note text will not be made public until the government is certain it is actually in the hands of Count Von Jagow, the German foreign minister.

It was expected that the code experts would require four or five hours for the work. It is believed that it will take 48 hours for the message to reach Berlin.

With the German crisis temporarily out of the way it was believed today that the president will devote himself to the Mexican situation until the German reply comes.

With the statement on the Mexican situation already in the hands of Carranza and Provincial President Garza, the state department awaited word that it had been received by Zapata and Villa. The Brazilian minister at Mexico City reported that a copy of the document had been sent to Zapata.

Officials were inclined not to place much confidence in the statement purporting to come from Villa that he would lay waste the Texas border the moment this government attempted to force its views upon Mexico.

WILL MAKE NO STOPS.

An erroneous statement has been circulated in regard to the excursion which the Main Street Christian church Sunday school will run to Cincinnati next Tuesday, that the train would make all local stops from Rushville to Liberty. According to a statement this afternoon, the train will leave here at seven a. m., making no stops for passengers. Everyone intending to go, is requested to buy tickets at Hargrove & Mullins, by Monday noon so the number of cars can be ordered.

An Exploded Secret

By EMMA BLAKE

The French ship Arago sailed from New York for Cherbourg, France, in March, 1915, loaded with munitions of war for the allies. She had been out six days, and two of the voyage remained, when one of the passengers, a man, appeared at the door of the captain's cabin on the upper deck, slipped in hastily, put his finger to his lips to enjoin silence and stood for a moment waiting, evidently endeavoring to conquer some strong emotion. Then after turning the key in the door he said almost in a whisper to the astonished commander:

"Captain Le Moyné, this vessel is in imminent danger."

"How so?" asked the captain, starting.

The captain demurred for some time, cross questioning the man in an effort to get out of him something of what he had to say without making any promises. But the man shut up like a clam and would say nothing further except that there was a strong probability that the ship would be wrecked that night. Finally Captain Le Moyné gave in, wrote out a bond such as the man required, and he told his story.

He said that in the stateroom next to his he had heard two men talking. He could not hear all they said, but had heard enough to lead him to believe that they were emissaries of either the German or Austrian government, who had been sent to blow up the ship and send the cargo of arms and ammunition to the bottom. He had heard distinctly one of these men say to the other, "Very well, we'll do it tonight."

The captain started to leave his cabin when his visitor took the key from the lock and held it in a tight grip while he added:

"Remember your promise—if on examination you see anything that looks like an implement of destruction you will not throw it overboard, but place it where it can do no serious damage to the ship."

"Why do you stipulate for that?" asked the captain.

"Because I do not wish to be responsible for property destroyed by mistake. I should never forgive myself for doing so, and I would lay myself liable to damages that might take all I have."

This satisfied Le Moyné, who had no more relish for destroying harmless property than his informer.

The captain obtained a pass key and, accompanied only by the informer, went to the stateroom. There they found a box about the size of a suitcase with a sliding cover, which was locked. Putting his ear down to the box, the captain fancied he heard a

RAISING POULTRY For PROFIT

By John Wildig

Those who are contemplating building new or remodeling their old poultry houses, should bear in mind that the one thing most essential in the coldest weather, is fresh air with no draught. The building of unsanitary poultry houses has caused more failures in the poultry business, than any other mistake that I know of. You can raise the most perfect of poultry imaginable by the fall of the year, and have them utterly ruined as breeders and layers, by the following spring, through the improper housing. One of the most fatal diseases rous, is caused by drafty and damp housing.

You must also keep your houses dry. After having built and experimented with nearly every kind that has been advocated by our experimental stations, I have arrived at the conclusion that the best poultry house is the one that is not too cold in winter or too hot in summer. I will explain the winter house that has produced the best results for us both as to the egg yield and health in our flocks.

Build a house 16 by 12. This will accommodate fifty hens, confined in winter. Build the front seven feet high, face south or south east. The back should be 5 feet, six inches. Place three sash having 8 inches by 10 inches glass in each, in the front of this house. These should be built a foot from the ground floor. In between and to the height of these sash, build solid with boards. Above this make frames and cover with coarse burlap; make these adjustable so that you can change with the weather conditions, but never leave them out on cold nights.

Next, make the roof. Then the back and two sides airtight. Use good rubberoid for the roof and two ply tar paper for the back and sides; put on with laths. Whitewash this tar paper, as it prevents the sun from blistering, and the wind from blowing it away. Otherwise cover on the inside of your house. Your drop board should be built at the north end and will be three feet, six inches from the floor and four feet wide. This will accommodate three perches twelve inches high from the drop board. This gives you the whole floor space for scratching material, which is most essential. The nest boxes can be built on each side, about 18 inches from the floor.

The floor must be dug out and filled with six inches, at least, of cinders, raising this so that it will be six inches higher inside the house, when the cinders and gravel are placed, than the ground outside. This is to insure a dry floor. Then cover this with 6 or 8 inches of straw or leaves, and feed all grain into this. Better have door in south front. Do not let the hens out after the winter has set in.

Wonderful Touch of Parisians Has More than One Application

BY MARGARET MASON
(Written for United Press.)

You can rave about the fashions That come from gay Paree But styles in little old New York Are good enough for me.

You can talk of shops in London In Paris and in Rome But I'll do all my shopping in The town that I call home.

New York, June 4.—You are right the Parisians have a wonderful touch when it comes to sartorial confections and also when it comes to Americans. They certainly touch them both artistically and successfully.

As for London it is an excellent place to lay in a good supply of substantial like wollen lingerie or cashmere hosiery but oh what a joy it is to return to that Mecca of the Mode New York and fall all over yourself trying to snap up all the beautiful bargains on Broadway and Fifth Avenue.

Believe me if you are on one side of Fifth Avenue you don't have to come across to see more lovely and adorable frocks and frills and fixings than ever came across the sea. They are just thick on all sides.

This is true, of course of all the big American cities, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco, St. Louis and Kansas City. And talk about smart and Pulehritudinous females you see more in a minute in any American city that's big as a tank town than you can glimpse in London in a week. In fact the smart female is an unknown quantity in England unless she be an American or a Parisian on tour.

The general chic of the Parisians is an undeniable fact and raving beauties are often spotted in their midst but I still contend that taking them en masse, as it were, our own American maids can put it all over their Continental cousins for both styles and good looks. Of course, I may be a trifle biased in my judgement but surely not more so than a mother citing the good points of her first born. Remember after all I'm not touting for New York alone.

Just to prove that New York can well afford to take a style tip from some of her American sister cities there is the case of the chic little lady from Buffalo. She breezed into Little Old New York one day last week in a frock that was not only the last word in sartorial perfection it was positively the last cry. Her costume which was home grown right in Buffalo, was of black and white pin check surah silk. The tiny short straight jacket, was buttoned up the front with bullet-shaped buttons of gunmetal pearl. The low V shaped neck was filled in a trifle with dreadnought grey silk net in two folds and a ruche of net finished the back of the neck. A ruffle of the net and a pleated ruffle of the silk finished the long sleeves and pleated ruffles of the silk edged the short two tiered skirt, the upper tier of which was rendered bouyant with a bit of feather boning in the hem a la eroline. A grey kid belt finished the jacket a tiny straw turban of grey finished her one extremity and grey silk hose and grey kid low shoes laced on the sides finished the other while gloves of the grey, stitched in black, proved themselves two good things to have on hand.

No one was more surprised than the little lady from Buffalo to find herself the target of all eyes and many audible and awed remarks as she tripped up the Avenue. The supposedly blasé New Yorkers eyed her like a bunch of rubes in a jaytown stare at the bankers daughter just back from a finishing school in the East.

Oh yes, New York has lots to learn when it comes to a fashionable finishing but she no longer has to go abroad for the education. She can pick up a post graduate course in matters sartorial just any little day in any little city in the U. S. A.

A Pickpocket's Trick.

To which the official replied: "Let me explain. As soon as the thief had completed his preliminary work to satisfy himself that you had some money in your pocket he set to work to get it out. But he didn't put his hand in your pocket. This is what he did. He took hold of the lining of your pocket with his thumb and index finger, and when the car lurched or jolted he pulled the lining up a little more until finally the edge of the bill came in sight. As soon as enough of the bill had appeared to enable him to get a grip on it he carefully plucked it out of your pocket, and you never knew the difference. It appears simple, but it requires considerable skill."—New York Sun.

Babylonians Feared Ghosts.

In a lecture on "Burial Customs In Mesopotamia and Egypt" Dr. L. W. King, F. S. A., said the spirit which animated the Egyptians in their varied and changing practices toward the dead was based on affection and reverence, but the Babylonian, in the main, was prompted by fear. The Babylonians were probably more spook ridden than any other nation of antiquity, and their magical texts made it clear that the most terrible class of spirits were the ghosts of the dead, who for some reason had been unable to enter the underworld. Driven by hunger and thirst, such a ghost might roam about and fasten on any one with whom it had had relations in this life, and it would plague him until he performed the rites that could give it peace. It was mainly to lay the ghost and prevent it from "haunting" that the Babylonians were scrupulous in performing the due burial rites.—London Times.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

in both canned and frozen commodities. "The year 1914," he writes, "opened with every prospect of this expectation being realized. Several Australian producers visited the United States and excellent results were being achieved when the war came on and interrupted the course of business. Embargoes were put on meat exports to countries other than Great Britain and its allies." The trade, therefore, was much depressed at the year's close. The absence of refrigerated tonnage, owing to the demands of the war for troop ships to Great Britain was materially curtailed. Mr. Bray notes that the Australian States are considering legislation still further restricting meat exports and it is therefore out of the question for Australian meat exporters to pay any further practical attention to the American market at present. Two hundred million pounds of fresh meat was imported into this country during the 7 months preceeding the war, Australia then standing third on the list and just getting limbered up. All will agree with Sherman's definition of war, but the European horror has done much to shield the farmers of this country from a free trade purgatory.

CHAPTER XVII.

The professor roused himself from what had apparently been a very gloomy reverie.

"Well," he announced, "I must go home. It has been very kind of you, Mr. Quest, to keep me here for so long."

Quest glanced at the clock.

"Don't hurry, Mr. Ashleigh," he said. "We may get some news at any moment. French has a dozen men out on the search and he has promised to ring me up immediately he hears anything."

The professor sighed.

"A man," he declared, "who for twenty years can deceive his master as utterly and completely as Craig has done me, who is capable of such diabolical outrages, and who, when capture stares him in the face, is capable of an escape such as he made today, is outside the laws of probability. Personally, I do not believe that I shall ever again see the face of my servant, any more than that you, Quest, will entirely solve the mystery of these murders and the theft of the Rheinholdt jewels. What can we do against men who have revolving staircases and trolley-loads of river pirates waiting for them? You may be a scientific criminologist, Quest, but that fellow Craig is a scientific criminal, if ever there was one."

Quest crossed the room towards his cigar cabinet, and opened it. His little start was apparent to both of them. Lenora laid down the bag which she had just lifted up. The professor leaned forward in his chair.

"What is it, Quest?" he demanded. Quest stretched out his hand and picked up from the top of the cigars a small black box! He laid it on the table.

"Unless I am very much mistaken," he said, "it is another communication from our mysterious friend."

"Impossible!" the professor exclaimed hoarsely.

"How can he have been here?" Lenora cried.

Quest removed the lid from the box and drew out a circular card. Around the outside edge was a very clever pen and ink sketch of a lifebuoy, and inside the margin were several sentences of clear handwriting. In the middle was the signature—the clenched hands! Quest read the message aloud:

In the great scheme of things, the Supreme Ruler of the universe di-

Quest hung up the receiver.

"See here, professor," he continued, "that fellow wouldn't dare to send this message if he weren't pretty sure of getting off. He's made all his plans beforehand, but it's my belief we shall just get our hands upon him, after all."

Presently he heard the automobile stop outside and French appeared.

"Anything doing?" he asked.

Quest showed him the card and the sailing list.

The inspector glanced at the clock.

"Then we've got to make tracks," he declared, "and pretty quick, too. She'll be starting from somewhere about number twenty-eight dock, a long way down. Come along, gentlemen."

They hurried out to the automobile and started off for the docks. The latter part of their journey was accomplished under difficulties, for the street was packed with drays and heavy vehicles. They reached dock number twenty-eight at last, however, and hurried through the shed on to the wharf. There were no signs of a steamer there.

"Where's the Durham?" Quest asked one of the carters, who was just getting his team together.

The man pointed out to the middle of river, where a small steamer was lying.

"There she is," he replied. "She'll be off in a few minutes. You'll hear the sirens directly when they begin to move down."

Quest led the way quickly to the edge of the wharf. There was a small tug there, the crew of which were just making her fast for the night.

"Fifty dollars if you'll take us out to the Durham and catch her before she sails," Quest shouted to the man who seemed to be the captain.

They clambered down the iron ladder and jumped on to the deck of the tug. The captain seized the wheel. The two men who formed the crew took off their coats and waistcoats.

"Give it to her, Jim," the former ordered. "Now then, here goes! We'll just miss the ferry."

They swung around and commenced their journey. Quest stood with his watch in his hand. They were getting up the anchor of the Durham and from higher up the river came the screen of steamers beginning to move on their outward way.

"We'll make it all right," the captain assured them.

He Was Wearing Craig's Clothes.

vided an inheritance amongst his children. To one he gave power, to another strength, to another beauty, but to his favorite he gave cunning. They all looked at one another. "What does it mean?" Lenora gasped.

"A lifebuoy!" the professor murmured. They both stared at Quest, who remained silent, chewing hard at the end of his cigar.

"Every message," he said, speaking half to himself, "has had some significance. What does this mean—a lifebuoy?"

He was silent for a moment. Then he turned suddenly to the professor. "What did you call those men in the motortruck, professor—river pirates? And a lifebuoy! Wait."

He crossed the room towards his desk and returned with a list in his hand. He ran his finger down it, stopped and glanced at the date.

"The Durham," he muttered, "cargo cotton, destination Southampton, sails at high tide on the 16th. Lenora, is that calendar right?"

"It's the 16th, Mr. Quest," she answered.

Quest crossed the room to the telephone.

"I want number one, central," he said. "Thank you! Put me through to Mr. French's office. . . . Hello, French! I've got an idea. Can you come round here at once and bring an automobile? I want to get down to the docks—not where the passenger steamers start from—lower down."

Good! We'll wait."

a hundred yards of the Durham when Quest gave a little exclamation. From the other side of the steamer another tug shot out away, turning back towards New York. Huddled up in the stern, half concealed in a tarpaulin, was a man in a plain black suit. Quest, with a little shout, recognized the man at the helm from his long, brown beard.

"That's one of those fellows who was in the truck," he declared, "and that's Craig in the stern! We've got him this time. Say, captain, it's that tug I want. Never mind about the steamer. Catch it and I'll make it a hundred dollars!"

"We've got her!" the captain exclaimed. There's the ferry and the first of the steamers coming down in the middle. They'll have to chuck it."

Right ahead of them, blazing with lights, a huge ferry came churning the river up and sending waves in their direction. On the other side, unnaturally large, loomed up the great bows of an ocean-going steamer. The tug was swung round and they ran up alongside. The man with the beard leaned over.

"Say, what's your trouble?" he demanded.

The inspector stepped forward. "I want that man you've got under the tarpaulin," he announced.

"Say, you ain't the river police?"

"I'm Inspector French from headquarters," was the curt reply. "The sooner you hand him over, the better for you."

"Do you hear that, O'Toole?" the other remarked, turning around. "Get up, you blackguard!"

A man rose from underneath the oilskin. He was wearing Craig's clothes, but his face was the face of a stranger. As quick as lightning Quest swung round in his place.

"He's fooled us again!" he exclaimed. "Head her round, captain—back to the Durham!"

The sailor shook his head.

"We've lost our chance, guv'nor," he pointed out. "Look!"

Quest set his teeth and gripped the inspector's arm. The place where the Durham had been anchored was empty. Already, half a mile down the river, with a trail of light behind and her siren shrieking, the Durham was standing out seawards.

JACK COOMBS REAL COME BACK

Is Pitching Wonderful Ball For Brooklyn After it as Thought he Was Through

HAS REMARKABLE CAREER

Was Free Agent When he Signed With Ebbetts—Injury Caused Him to go Bad

BY BARRY FARIS
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

New York, June 5.—Up out of the misty murk of oblivion emerges one Jack Coombs, former world's series star and long the mainstay of the Athletics' great pitching staff in their palmy days. With Squire Ebbetts' Brooklyn Trolley Dodgers, ably managed by Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson, Coombs is once more battling his way over the rough roads that lead to fame and glory.

Released outright by the Athletics and generally regarded as being one of baseball's "has beens" the "Iron Man" of other days has flashed a brand of twirling in the National league this season that bids fair to put him at or near the top of the circuit's winning hurlers. Robinson has sent him to the mound in more victories than defeats. His victories have been hard won battles, too, his teammates making but two or three runs behind him.

Coombs' return to the top of the heap is one of the most remarkable ever recorded in the annals of baseball. The big twirler severely wrenched the muscles of his back in a world's series battle while with the Athletics. At that time it was thought he was through for all time as an athlete. But Coombs was determined to stick in the game. He employed specialists to work on him and a "harness"—something on the order of a steel jacket—was rigged up for him. Wearing this he was able to work on the mound, though under great difficulty.

The injury made itself manifest in his work, however. He twirled lots of good games but he couldn't pitch with the effectiveness that had once marked his efforts. Connie Mack was loath to let him go and it was not until last fall, when he "cleaned house" for fair, did the Athletic manager part with him.

Coombs, then a free agent, went to Manager Robinson of the Dodgers. To him he made the proposition that if he didn't return to his old form of services were not to cost a cent. Judging by his work so far Coombs is meeting the Dodgers' paymaster regularly.

In talking of his work this year recently Coombs ventured the opinion that his success was due to his easy style of pitching.

"I always saved something back for the pinches, even before I was hurt," he said. "I never believed in working hard over every ball I pitched when I broke into fast company I resolved to copy the crack twirlers who had been in fast company for years. I believed that the ones who stayed up there year after year were the ones to study."

I picked out Cy Young and Bill Dineen as the best examples. I noticed that they worked in the easiest possible way. They never exerted themselves needlessly. I think I got more benefit from watching them work than any other twirlers I saw. I copied their methods and tried to improve upon them—tried to be as effective as possible without wasting much energy."

INDIANA STATE LEAGUE OPENS

Games Tomorrow Will Mark Start of New Organization—Rushville at Connersville

RUSHERS HAVE TWO NEW MEN

With Outfielder And Short Stop Great Effort Will be Made to Beat Remington

Games Sunday:
Rushville at Connersville
Cambridge City at Newcastle
Perkins-Campbell at Richmond

The lid on the Indiana State league will be officially pried off Sunday. The fans in the cities in this district will be given a taste of organized ball and from all indications the article of ball will be higher than ever displayed in these cities.

Naturally local interest centers on the outcome of the Rushers at Connersville. That Rushville has an equal chance is admitted by the fans and with an equal break Rushville will come home at the top of the league. The official opening of the league in Rushville will take place one week from Sunday with the Perkins-Campbell team the attraction.

The game tomorrow in Connersville will be called at three-fifteen o'clock on account of the lodge memorial services in this city and at Connersville. From all indications a large crowd of rooters will accompany the team. The traction line and the rooting at the game promises to be spirited.

As to the Rushville team, the lineup will be the strongest that has been on the field this year. A new outfielder has been added and a new short stop. The outfielder is Lawson and the short stop is Reggy. Both are experienced ball players and should add strength to the team. Lawson will be placed in left field and Cordes brought over to right. The team will line up as follows:

Brietenstien, third; Cordes, right; Rohe, first; Schlenker, second; Lawson, left; Reggy, short; Hewitt, pitch; Hellmund, center; Goodfellow, catch; and Clancy, utility.

EXPECT QUARREL WILL BE RENEWED

More Light Will be Thrown on Fight When Suffrage Association Meet Tomorrow

ARE TWO ORGANIZATIONS

(By United Press.)
Chicago, June 5.—More light on the quarrel between the National American Suffrage association and the Congressional Union was looked for tomorrow when the former organization convenes. Sessions will continue through June 9. The main point of difference between the two organizations is the charge by the A. W. S. A. that the Congressional union has urged the emissaries to throw down the request for state suffrage. The organization that met today is fighting for suffrage through state enactments. The Congressional union wants suffrage through a federal constitutional amendment. About one year ago the Congressional union was read out of the national organization. Speakers today were expected to attack the Congressional union methods of heckling President Wilson at this time of international crisis.

ASKED TO FORM BRANCH HERE

Swiss People Urge United States to Organize Association to Safeguard International Law.

PROMINENT PEOPLE INVITED

Would Make Inquiry Into Alleged Violations as Now Being Made
by Warring Nations.

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)
Indianapolis, Ind., June 5.—Prominent citizens of the United States
have been asked to form in this country an American branch of the Association for the Safeguard of International Law, which was founded at Berne, Switzerland, on November 15, 1914. As outlined in letters sent to this country by the president of the Swiss organization, the various commissions would have as their purpose "to institute an impartial inquiry into the cases of the violation of international law on the battlefields and elsewhere."

"A great gulf is opening between the peoples of the earth," said the letter from President Paul Moriaud
of the Swiss organization. "Accusations of injustice, of barbarity, even,
are passing from one to the other like shot from trench to trench. Each is indignant at the odious actions with which it believes itself justified in accusing the other, and vice versa."

Moriaud, who is dean of the faculty of the law at the University of Geneva, says the opinion of the civilized world "has not been truly enlightened by the numerous propaganda emanating from belligerent
countries" and adds:

"It must be sure of the facts, for only then can it exert an influence;
then only will the fear of its verdict
be able to restrain within just limits
the forces of passion let loose by war."

The Swiss profess to fear that unless the truth of the present situation becomes known to independent men, "an irreparable blow will be struck by the war at the very roots
of human progress." Such an impartial investigation would show, the letter states, "either that there has been exaggerations on both sides, or that the guilt of some has infinitely surpassed that of others, and even then a frank avowal on the part of the independent men would be a great step towards that reconciliation of
the very roots of human progress."

Moriaud confesses that alone the Swiss are helpless, but believes that similar commissions representing all
the neutral countries would enforce recognition and inspire confidence.
Therefore he urges Americans to hasten and form such a commission.

Accompanying the letter is a list giving the names of those to which it is addressed. Indiana's only representative on the list is John A.
Lapp of this city, director of the Indiana Bureau of Legislative Information. The list includes the names of:

sity; Andrew Carnegie; Henry Claws,

TODAY'S ODDEST STORY

(By United Press.)
Pueblo, Colo., June 5—Every
city has some claim to distinction. Pueblo, among other things, has the oddest nail factory in the world, making the largest and smallest nails in creation.
The "microscopic" 3-16
brads require 30,500 of them to weigh a pound and half a million are cut in a minute at the Rockefeller's steel plant here.
The biggest nails in the world
the 12 by 3-8 inch spike, used in bridge building weigh three to a pound. And they are hammered out at one blow of the machine, 200 each minute. It takes five hundred of the little brads to make the head of the spike.
The nails made here in a year
could circle the globe if placed
end to end.

CLEMENCY ASKED FOR NEWT CASEY

Petition is Sent Governor Ralston Asking That he be Allowed His Freedom

PHYSICIANS EXAMINE HIM

Judge Sparks Says Community Does Not Want Him Inhumanly Punished.

A petition requesting clemency for Newton Casey, convicted "blind tiger" operator was forwarded to Governor Ralston today. The petition contained many names, including several county officials. Along with the petition was statements from three local physicians in which it was pointed out that they believed Casey should be given his freedom as the confinement of the county jail was fast taking his health.

Casey is serving two sentences. One is on a "blind tiger" charge and the other is for associating. He was fined $290 and given 110 days on the "blind tiger" charge and was fined $90 and given 90 days on the associating charge. The fines in these cases are accumulative, but the jail sentences are not. Casey is unable to pay the fines. The fines alone, if he is compelled to lay them out would make a total of 380 days, to which added the largest jail sentence, 110 days, would give him a total of 490 days in jail, or nearly two years.

The petition was presented to Judge Sparks this morning. It was stated to the court that Casey is in ill health. Judge Sparks appointed Dr. Lowell M. Green, Dr. J. T. Paxton and Dr. H. V. Logan to make an examination of Casey and report to the court. The physicians reported that they found Casey in poor condition and believed that the long confinement in the county jail would take away his health entirely.

Judge Sparks would not sign the petition asking for clemency, but stated in a letter to Governor Ralston that the community did not desire that Casey be inhumanly punished and that if the governor saw fit to release him advised that he not issue a complete pardon for the convicted man, but that he simply be let out on a parole in order that the court would have some strings to him.

Judge Sparks' position on the matter was clearly stated. He did not want Casey inhumanly punished, but believed that the ends of justice would not be met if Casey was given a complete pardon. For this reason he asked the governor, if he acted favorably on the petition, to place Casey on parole.

RECEIVER FILES LIST OF ASSETS

Inventory is Given Court in Case of United States Board and Paper Company.

CASE UNDER ADVISEMENT

Judge Sparks took the case of William Cross against Alvan Moor, to foreclose a mechanic's lien, demanding $200, under advisement following the completion of the testimony. The case involves the drilling of a well by Cross on the Moor farm. He refused to pay for it because the water was not clear and Cross took out a lien.

An inventory and a statement of the assets and liabilities of the United States Board and Paper company of Carthage was filed this morning by the receiver, Edgar Hill. The inventory and statement was approved by the court. This is the first court proceedings in the case since the receiver was appointed.

RECALLS OPENING OF RAILROAD HERE

Interesting Piece of Paper Received by Mrs. Edwin Lee From Her Sister in Missouri.

GUESTS WERE FROM MADISON

Mrs. Lillian Armstrong of Jackson, Mo., formerly of this city, has sent an interesting bit of old Rushville history to her sister, Mrs. Edwin Lee of Jersey City. It is a program for a railroad excursion from Madison to this city and is believed to have been for the occasion when the old J. M. & I. railroad was opened between this city and Madison.

The only date on the bill is June 14, the year not being stated. According to the bill the excursion from Madison arrived here at three-twenty in the afternoon and Rushville planned a big demonstration for the visitors. It is a noticeable fact that all the men mentioned as assistant marshals of the day are now dead. The exercises were held in the court house yard. L. Sexton was the marshal of the day and John S. Campbell was the chairman on arrangements. Joel Wolfe gave the principal address, according to the hand bill. The assistant marshals were Rue Pugh, Henry Dixon, P. W. Rush, Ed P. Schlatter, A. F. Woodcock.

Mrs. Armstrong found the bill among some old relics and sent it here to her sister to see if it could be figured out as to what the celebration was.

Peter Johnson, colored, is ill at his home in East Eleventh street.

D.A.R. MEMBERS SIGN PLEDGE

Agree to Buy and Demand Only Those Things That Are Made in America.

IS NATIONAL ORGANIZATION

Movement is Started Here for First Time—Delegates to Conference Elected.

Only "made in America" products will be used in many Rushville homes as a result of the movement started yesterday at the regular meeting of the D. A. R. The movement has been on foot for some time but was started in Rushville only yesterday by the members of the D. A. R. The meeting was held at the home of Miss Leonora Norris in North Morgan street.

All members signed the pledge and became members of the Woman's National Made in U. S. A. League. The purpose of the league, which is an organization without dues, is to promote American interests. The pledge is as follows: "I pledge myself for the welfare of our country while the war lasts, to demand and buy everything, when ever possible, 'Made in U. S. A.' and urge my friends to do likewise."

The D. A. R. members hope to induce others to join the league and it is believed that the organization will grow rapidly. That the women are in sympathy with the movement for "America First" was shown by the manner in which the pledge was received.

The meeting yesterday was an important one. The delegates elected to the state conference to be held next fall at Terre Haute were Mrs. Will Dill, Mrs. Sarah Giffin and Mrs. C. H. Gilbert. The alternates are Mrs. D. D. Vanosdol, Mrs. Joe Amos and Mrs. Wilford Grindle, Mrs. John Tinsworth and Miss Emma Cassidy.

As this was the first meeting since the D. A. R. congress in Washington a complete report of the congress was given by Mrs. Will Dill. The report told in full the business and social end of the convention.

Miss Emma Cassidy read an interesting paper on "Women of the Revolution." Miss Alice Norris gave an interesting discussion of "Prominent Women of the D. A. R."

SUIT TO COLLECT JUDGMENT FILED

Walter Smith Asks That Joseph Stern be Cited to Appear and Answer Concerning Property.

THE AMOUNT INVOLVED IS $70

Walter E. Smith, administrator of the estate of Edith B. Smith, filed suit this morning against Joseph Stern, asking for an order of the court to require Stern to appear and show cause why a judgment rendered against him should not be applied. The present suit is the outgrowth of a suit on a lease brought against Joseph Stern when he moved his store from the Smith room in West Second street. In this case the court found for Smith in the sum of $70 and according to the complaint filed this morning he has been unable to collect the judgment. It is alleged that Stern has property to the value of $1,500, and that he unjustly refuses to pay the judgment. He is asked to appear and answer concerning his property.

INTEREST FOR MONTH HEAVY

Showing That Total Was Greater For May Than Several Months Previous—Figures Given

Rush county had on deposit in the various banks of the county at the close of business May 31 a total of $351,720.27. This amount is not as large as for the month of April and this is accounted for by the payment of a large amount of gravel road bonds that came due in the month of May.

At one time the total was greater because of the spring payment of taxes but by the close of business on May 31 the amount fell off because of the road bonds. That the amount was greater is shown by the total amount of interest the county received during the month. The interest totaled $647.15. The interest for the month of April was $423.90. These figures are shown in the financial report of County Treasurer Williams to the board of finance.

The amount on deposit at the close of business May 31 in the various banks follow:

Rush County National	$81,790.78

ROUMANIA WILL NOT ENTER WAR

Decision Not to Join Allies Causes Great Joy in Berlin

RUSSIA SAID TO BE CAUSE

(By United Press.)

Berlin, June 5.—The allies have failed in their efforts to induce Roumania to follow Italy into the war. Russia and Roumania have been unable to come to terms and private advisers received here today indicate that the danger of this country invading Austria has at least been temporarily removed.

Russia, according to reports brought here refused to accede to some of Roumania territorial demands. The pressure of England, France and finally of the Italian king failed to move the czar and Roumania it is reported has ended the negotiations.

"The defeat of the attempt to get Roumania in the war is greater than the capture of Przemyśl," said a German paper today.

SAYS VICTORY IS THEIRS

(By United Press.)

Berlin, June 5.—Kaiser Wilhelm arrived at the Galician headquarters of the Austrian Arch-Duke Frederick this afternoon and was given a tremendous ovation by the Austro-German armies.

The kaiser had planned the trip by motor to celebrate the birthday of the Austrian Arch-Duke. His arrival on the heels of the Austro-German victory at Przemyśl aroused the greatest enthusiasm.

At a luncheon attended by many Austrian and German officials the kaiser proposed a toast to the success of the combined armies.

"With right on our side we are sweeping on to victory," he declared.

NOTE WILL BE SENT TONIGHT

Officials in Washington Now Busy Putting it to Code—Contents Not Known

48 HOURS TO REACH BERLIN

With German Crisis Out of Way President Will Turn His Attention to Mexico

(By United Press.)

Washington, June 5.—The American demand on Germany will go forward probably tonight. The complete draft of the document was approved by President Wilson before he left the Whitehouse this afternoon for his Saturday automobile ride. It was taken to the state department by a confidential messenger; formally approved by Secretary Bryan, whose signature it bears and immediately turned over to the code experts to be reduced to cipher for transmission to Berlin.

It was stated that the note text will not be made public until the government is certain it is actually in the hands of Count Von Jagow, the German foreign minister.

It was expected that the code experts would require four or five hours for the work. It is believed that it will take 48 hours for the message to reach Berlin.

With the German crisis temporarily out of the way it was believed today that the president will devote himself to the Mexican situation until the German reply comes.

With the statement on the Mexican situation already in the hands of Carranza, and Provincial President Garza, the state department awaited word that it had been received by Zapata and Villa. The Brazilian minister at Mexico City reported that a copy of the document had been sent to Zapata.

Officials were inclined not to place much confidence in the statement purporting to come from Villa that he would lay waste the Texas border the moment this government attempted to force its views upon Mexico.

WILL MAKE NO STOPS.

An erroneous statement has been circulated in regard to the excursion which the Main Street Christian church Sunday school will run to Cincinnati next Tuesday, that the train would make all local stops from Rushville to Liberty. According to a statement this afternoon, the train will leave here at seven a. m., making no stops for passengers. Everyone intending to go, is requested to buy tickets at Hargrove & Mullins, by Monday noon so the number of cars can be ordered.

June wedding bells bring hurries and worries to the bride's friends.

A suitable gift must be chosen, matters of apparel must be looked to.

And everything must be just right—a wedding is a real event.

At such a season the suggestions held out in the advertising columns of a live newspaper like The Daily Republican are invaluable.

Frequently the advertising will give a direct answer to your problems but in any event it will guide you to the right store.

RAISING POULTRY For PROFIT

By John Wildg

Those who are contemplating building new or remodeling their old poultry houses, should bear in mind that the one thing most essential in the coldest weather, is fresh air with no draught. The building of unsanitary poultry houses has caused more failures in the poultry business, than any other mistake that I know of. You can raise the most perfect of poultry imaginable by the fall of the year, and have them utterly ruined as breeders and layers, by the following spring, through the improper housing. One of the most fatal diseases rous, is caused by drafty and damp housing.

You must also keep your houses dry. After having built and experimented with nearly every kind that has been advocated by our experimental stations, I have arrived at the conclusion that the best poultry house is the one that is not too cold in winter or too hot in summer. I will explain the winter house that has produced the best results for us both as to the egg yield and health in our flocks.

Build a house 16 by 12. This will accommodate fifty hens, confined in winter. Build the front seven feet high, face south or south east. The back should be 5 feet, six inches. Place three sash having 8 inches by 10 inches glass in each, in the front of this house. These should be built a foot from the ground floor. In between and to the height of these sash, build solid with boards. Above this make frames and cover with coarse burlap; make these adjustable so that you can change with the weather conditions, but never leave them out on cold nights.

Next, make the roof. Then the back and two sides airtight. Use

good rubberoid for the roof and two ply tar paper for the back and sides; put on with laths. Whitewash this tar paper, as it prevents the sun from blistering, and the wind from blowing it away. Otherwise cover on the inside of your house. Your drop board should be built at the north end and will be three feet, six inches from the floor and four feet wide. This will accommodate three perches twelve inches high from the drop board. This gives you the whole floor space for scratching material, which is most essential. The nest boxes can be built on each side, about 18 inches from the floor.

The floor must be dug out and filled with six inches, at least, of cinders, raising this so that it will be six inches higher inside the house, when the cinders and gravel are placed, than the ground outside. This is to insure a dry floor. Then cover this with 6 or 8 inches of straw or leaves, and feed all grain into this. Better have door in south front. Do not let the hens out after the winter has set in.

faint ticking, but was not sure. His informant also listened and declared that he could hear nothing. But he was a trifle deaf and could not hear a watch tick without putting it close to his ear.

The captain was for heaving the box overboard at once, but the other demurred, reminding him of his promise. Le Moyne averred that the lives of the crew and passengers were of more value than any promise, whereupon the other said:

"In the first place, captain, if you don't keep this matter a secret you'll have a panic aboard your ship; in the second place you can make all safe without the risk of laying you and me liable for damages in the destruction of what may be valuable property. All you have to do is to attach a line to the box, drop it overboard and let it float a couple of hundred yards astern."

The captain was so anxious to get rid of the article that he consented. Two strong iron handles were attached to it, one at either end. Producing a line, the captain secured it to one of these handles and ran it through the other for greater security. The informant suggested that it would be best to take it to his own stateroom, to be kept till after dark, that he might not attract attention, then drop it over the stern. To this he added a suggestion that it had better be put in place of the log for recording the ship's progress, which was hung out from the stern. The captain, not wishing it to be known that there were persons aboard intending to blow up the ship, assented to the delay, which was little more than an hour.

As soon as it was dark the informant carried the box to the stern, where he found the captain waiting for him, and, no one being near, it was lowered into the water, the line paid out and the near end attached to the reel. As soon as this was done Le Moyne breathed easier, though he was by no means sure that the persons who had intended to blow up the ship had not other contrivances for the purpose.

One morning when the Arago was sailing near the French coast Captain Le Moyne went aft to look for the floating box. He could not see it even with his binoculars. In fact, it had disappeared. He sent a steward for his informant, but the man could not be found.

Nor was he or the box ever heard of. When the Arago reached port detectives who had been cabled from New York came aboard to arrest an absconding bank cashier who had taken a hundred thousand dollars of the bank's funds.

Origin of a Word.

Few words have so remarkable a history as the word "bankrupt." The money lenders of Genoa, Venice and Florence had benches or stalls in the bourse, or exchange, in former times. At these benches they conducted their business. When any of them became insolvent his bench or bank was broken, because he had no further use for it, and the name banko rotto, or broken bench, was given to him. When the word first came into use in England it was nearer the Italian than it now is, being "bankerout" instead of bankrupt.

Smoke FAIR PROMISE 5c Cigars

An Exploded Secret

By EMMA BLAKE

The French ship Arago sailed from New York for Cherbourg, France, in March, 1915, loaded with munitions of war for the allies. She had been out six days, and two of the voyage remained, when one of the passengers, a man, appeared at the door of the captain's cabin on the upper deck, slipped in hastily, put his finger to his lips to enjoin silence and stood for a moment waiting, evidently endeavoring to conquer some strong emotion. Then after turning the key in the door he said almost in a whisper to the astonished commander:

"Captain Le Moyne, this vessel is in imminent danger."

"How so?" asked the captain, starting.

The captain demurred for some time, cross questioning the man in an effort to get out of him something of what he had to say without making any promises. But the man shut up like a clam and would say nothing further except that there was a strong probability that the ship would be wrecked that night. Finally Captain Le Moyne gave in, wrote out a bond such as the man required, and he told his story.

He said that in the stateroom next to his he had heard two men talking. He could not hear all they said, but had heard enough to lead him to believe that they were emissaries of either the German or Austrian government, who had been sent to blow up the ship and send the cargo of arms and ammunition to the bottom. He had heard distinctly one of these men say to the other, "Very well, we'll do it tonight."

The captain started to leave his cabin when his visitor took the key from the lock and held it in a tight grip while he added:

"Remember your promise—if on examination you see anything that looks like an implement of destruction you will not throw it overboard, but place it where it can do no serious damage to the ship."

"Why do you stipulate for that?" asked the captain.

"Because I do not wish to be responsible for property destroyed by mistake. I should never forgive myself for doing so, and I would lay myself liable to damages that might take all I have."

This satisfied Le Moyne, who had no more relish for destroying harmless property than his informant.

The captain obtained a pass key and, accompanied only by the informant, went to the stateroom. There they found a box about the size of a suitcase with a sliding cover, which was locked. Putting his ear down to the box, the captain fancied he heard a

Wonderful Touch of Parisians Has More than One Application

BY MARGARET MASON
(Written for United Press.)

You can rave about the fashions that come from gay Paris. But styles in little old New York are good enough for me. You can talk of shops in London in Paris and in Rome. But I'll do all my shopping in the town that I call home.

New York, June 4.—You are right the Parisians have a wonderful touch when it comes to sartorial confections and also when it comes to Americans. They certainly touch them both artistically and successfully.

As for London it is an excellent place to lay in a good supply of substantial like wollen lingerie or cashmere hosiery but oh what a joy it is to return to that Mecca of the Mode New York and fall all over yourself trying to snap up all the beautiful bargains on Broadway and Fifth Avenue.

Believe me if you are on one side of Fifth Avenue you don't have to come across to see more lovely and adorable frocks and frills and fixings than ever came across the sea. They are just thick on all sides.

This is true, of course of all the big American cities, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco, St. Louis and Kansas City. And talk about smart and Pulchritudinous females you see more in a minute in any American city that's big as a tank town than you can glimpse in London in a week. In fact the smart female is an unknown quantity in England unless she be an American or a Parisian on tour.

The general chic of the Parisians is an undeniable fact and raving beauties are often spotted in their midst but I still contend that taking them en masse, as it were, our own American maids can put it all over their Continental cousins for both style and good looks. Of course, I may be a trifle biased in my judgement but surely not more so than a mother citing the good points of her first born. Remember after all I'm not touting for New York alone.

Just to prove that New York can well afford to take a style tip from some of her American sister cities there is the case of the chic little lady from Buffalo. She breezed into Little Old New York one day last week in a frock that was not only the last word in sartorial perfection it was positively the last cry. Her costume which was home grown right in Buffalo, was of black and white pin check surah silk. The tiny short straight jacket, was buttoned up the front with bullet-shaped buttons of gunmetal pearl. The low V shaped neck was filled in a trifle with dreadnought grey silk net in two folds and a ruche of net finished the back of the neck. A ruffle of the net and a pleated ruffle of the silk finished the long sleeves and pleated ruffles of the silk edged the short two tiered skirt, the upper tier of which was rendered buoyant with a bit of feather boning in the hem a la eroline. A grey kid belt finished the jacket a tiny straw turban of grey finished her one extremity and grey silk hose and grey kid low shoes laced on the sides finished the other while gloves of the grey, stitched in black, proved themselves two good things to have on hand.

No one was more surprised than the little lady from Buffalo to find herself the target of all eyes and many audible and awed remarks as she tripped up the Avenue. The supposedly blasé New Yorkers eyed her like a bunch of rubes in a jaytown stare at the bankers daughter just back from a finishing school in the East.

Oh yes, New York has lots to learn when it comes to a fashionable finishing but she no longer has to go abroad for the education. She can pick up a post graduate course in matters sartorial just any little day in any little city in the U. S. A.

A Pickpocket's Trick.

"What puzzles me," said a well dressed man to a police captain to whom he had complained that a roll of bills had been taken from his trousers pocket in a subway car, "is how the thief got the money, since I never felt his hand in my pocket." To which the official replied: "Let me explain. As soon as the thief had completed his preliminary work to satisfy himself that you had some money in your pocket he set to work to get it out. But he didn't put his hand in your pocket. This is what he did. He took hold of the lining of your pocket with his thumb and index finger, and when the car lurched or jolted he pulled the lining up a little more until finally the edge of the bill came in sight. As soon as enough of the bill had appeared to enable him to get a grip on it he carefully plucked it out of your pocket, and you never knew the difference. It appears simple, but it requires considerable skill."—New York Sun.

Babylonians Feared Ghosts.

In a lecture on "Burial Customs in Mesopotamia and Egypt" Dr. L. W. King, F. S. A., said the spirit which animated the Egyptians in their varied and changing practices toward the dead was based on affection and reverence, but the Babylonians, in the main, was prompted by fear. The Babylonians were probably more spook ridden than any other nation of antiquity, and their magical texts made it clear that the most terrible class of spirits were the ghosts of the dead, who for some reason had been unable to enter the underworld. Driven by hunger and thirst, such a ghost might roam about and fasten on any one with whom it had had relations in this life, and it would plague him until he performed the rites that could give it peace. It was mainly to lay the ghost and prevent it from "haunting" that the Babylonians were scrupulous in performing the due burial rites.—London Times.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

in both canned and frozen commodities. "The year 1914," he writes, "opened with every prospect of this expectation being realized. Several Australian producers visited the United States and excellent results were being achieved when the war came on and interrupted the course of business. Embargoes were put on meat exports to countries other than Great Britain and its allies." The trade, therefore, was much depressed at the year's close. The absence of refrigerated tonnage, owing to the demands of the war for troop ships to Great Britain was materially curtailed. Mr. Bray notes that the Australian States are considering legislation still further restricting meat exports and it is therefore out of the question, for Australian meat exporters to pay any further practical attention to the American market at present. Two hundred million pounds of fresh meat was imported into this country during the 7 months preceding the war, Australia then standing third on the list and just getting limbered up. All will agree with Sherman's definition of war, but the European horror has done much to shield the farmers of this country from a free trade purgatory.

CHAPTER XVII.

The professor roused himself from what had apparently been a very gloomy reverie.

"Well," he announced, "I must go home. It has been very kind of you, Mr. Quest, to keep me here for so long."

Quest glanced at the clock. "Don't hurry, Mr. Ashleigh," he said. "We may get some news at any moment. French has a dozen men out on the search and he has promised to ring me up immediately he hears anything."

The professor sighed.

"A man," he declared, "who for twenty years can deceive his master as utterly and completely as Craig has done me, who is capable of such diabolical outrages, and who, when capture stares him in the face, is capable of an escape such as he made today, is outside the laws of probability. Personally, I do not believe that I shall ever again see the face of my servant, any more than that you, Quest, will entirely solve the mystery of these murders and the theft of the Rethelhold jewels. What can we do against men who have revolting staircases and trolley-loads of river pirates waiting for them? You may be a scientific criminologist, Quest, but that fellow Craig is a scientific criminal, if ever there was one."

Quest crossed the room towards his cigar cabinet, and opened it. His little start was apparent to both of them. Lenora laid down the bag which she had just lifted up. The professor leaned forward in his chair.

"What is it, Quest?" he demanded. Quest stretched out his hand and picked up from the top of the cigars a small black box! He laid it on the table.

"Unless I am very much mistaken," he said, "it is another communication from our mysterious friend."

"Impossible!" the professor exclaimed hoarsely.

"How can he have been here?" Lenora cried.

Quest removed the lid from the box and drew out a circular card. Around the outside edge was a very clever pen and ink sketch of a lifebuoy, and inside the margin were several sentences of clear handwriting. In the middle was the signature—the clenched hands! Quest read the message aloud:

In the great scheme of things, the Supreme Ruler of the universe di-

Quest hung up the receiver.

"See here, professor," he continued, "that fellow wouldn't dare to send this message if he weren't pretty sure of getting off. He's made all his plans beforehand, but it's my belief we shall just get our hands upon him, after all."

Presently the heard the automobile stop outside and French appeared.

"Anything doing?" he asked.

Quest showed him the card and the sailing list.

The inspector glanced at the clock.

"Then we've got to make tracks," he declared, "and pretty quick, too. She'll be starting from somewhere about number twenty-eight dock, a long way down. Come along, gentlemen."

They hurried out to the automobile and started off for the docks. The latter part of their journey was accomplished under difficulties, for the street was packed with drays and heavy vehicles. They reached dock number twenty-eight at last, however, and hurried through the shed on to the wharf. There were no signs of a steamer there.

"Where's the Durham?" Quest asked one of the carters, who was just getting his team together.

The man pointed out to the middle of river, where a small steamer was lying.

Quest led the way quickly to the edge of the wharf. There was a small tug there, the crew of which were just making her fast for the night.

"Fifty dollars if you'll take us out to the Durham and catch her before she sails," Quest shouted to the man who seemed to be the captain.

They clambered down the iron ladder and jumped on to the deck of the tug. The captain seized the wheel. The two men who formed the crew took off their coats and waistcoats.

"Give it to her, Jim," the former ordered. "Now then, here goes! We'll just miss the ferry."

They swung around and commenced their journey. Quest stood with his watch in his hand. They were getting up the anchor of the Durham and from higher up the river came the screeen of steamers beginning to move on their outward way.

"We'll make it all right," the captain assured them.

He Was Wearing Craig's Clothes.

vided an inheritance amongst his children. To one he gave power, to another strength, to another beauty, but to his favorite he gave cunning.

They all looked at one another.

"What does it mean?" Lenora gasped.

"A lifebuoy!" the professor murmured.

They both stared at Quest, who remained silent, chewing hard at the end of his cigar.

"Every message," he said, speaking half to himself, "has had some significance. What does this mean—a lifebuoy?"

He was silent for a moment. Then he turned suddenly to the professor. "What did you call those men in the motortruck, professor—river pirates? And a lifebuoy! Wait."

He crossed the room towards his desk and returned with a list in his hand. He ran his finger down it, stopped and glanced at the date.

"The Durham," he muttered, "cargo cotton, destination Southampton, sails at high tide on the 16th. Lenora, is that calendar right?"

"It's the 16th, Mr. Quest," she answered.

Quest crossed the room to the telephone.

"I want number one, central," he said. "Thank you! Put me through to Mr. French's office. Hello, French! I've got an idea. Can you come round here at once and bring an automobile? I want to get down to the docks—not where the passenger steamers start from—lower down."

a hundred yards of the Durham when Quest gave a little exclamation. From the other side of the steamer another tug shot out away, turning back towards New York. Huddled up in the stern, half concealed in a tarpaulin, was a man in a plain black suit. Quest, with a little shout, recognized the man at the helm from his long, brown beard.

"That's one of those fellows who was in the truck," he declared, "and that's Craig in the stern! We've got him this time. Say, captain, it's that tug I want. Never mind about the steamer. Catch it and I'll make it a hundred dollars!"

"We've got her!" he captain exclaimed. There's the ferry and the first of the steamers coming down in the middle. They'll have to chuck it."

Right ahead of them, blazing with lights, a huge ferry came churning the river up and sending waves in their direction. On the other side, unnaturally large, loomed up the great bows of an ocean-going steamer. The tug was swung round and they ran up alongside. The man with the beard leaned over.

"Say, what's your trouble?" he demanded.

The inspector stepped forward.

"I want that man you've got under the tarpaulin," he announced.

"Say, you ain't the river police?"

"I'm Inspector French from headquarters," was the curt reply. "The sooner you hand him over, the better for you."

"Do you hear that, O'Toole?" the other remarked, turning around. "Get

up, you blackguard!"

A man rose from underneath the oliskin. He was wearing Craig's clothes, but his face was the face of a stranger. As quick as lightning Quest swung round in his place.

"He's fooled us again!" he exclaimed. "Head her round, captain—back to the Durham!"

The sailor shook his head.

"We've lost our chance, guv'nor," he pointed out. "Look!"

Quest set his teeth and gripped the inspector's arm. The place where the Durham had been anchored was empty. Already, half a mile down the river, with a trail of light behind and her siren shrieking, the Durham was standing out seawards.

JACK COOMBS REAL COME BACK

Is Pitching Wonderful Ball For Brooklyn After it as Thought he Was Through

HAS REMARKABLE CAREER

Was Free Agent When he Signed With Ebbetts—Injury Caused Him to go Bad

BY BARRY FARIS
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

New York, June 5.—Up out of the misty muck of oblivion emerges one Jack Coombs, former world's series star and long the mainstay of the Athletics' great pitching staff in their palmy days. With Squire Ebbetts' Brooklyn Trolley Dodgers, ably managed by Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson, Coombs is once more battling his way over the rough roads that lead to fame and glory.

Released outright by the Athletics and generally regarded as being one of baseball's "has beens" the "Iron Man" of other days has flashed a brand of twirling in the National league this season that bids fair to put him at or near the top of the circuit's winning hurlers. Robinson has sent him to the mound in more victories than defeats. His victories have been hard won battles, too, his teammates making but two or three runs behind him.

Coombs' return to the top of the heap is one of the most remarkable over recorded in the annals of baseball. The big twirler severely wrenched the muscles of his back in world's series battle while with the Athletics. At that time it was thought he was through for all time as an athlete. But Coombs was determined to stick in the game. He employed specialists to work on him and a "barress"—something on the order of a steel jacket—was rigged up for him. Wearing this he was able to work on the mound, though under great difficulty.

The injury made itself manifest in his work, however. He twirled lots of good games but he couldn't pitch with the effectiveness that had once marked his efforts. Connie Mack was loath to let him go and it was not until last fall, when he "cleaned house" for fair, did the Athletic manager part with him.

Coombs, then a free agent, went to Manager Robinson of the Dodgers. To him he made the proposition that if he didn't return to his old form of services were not to cost a cent. Judging by his work so far Coombs is meeting the Dodgers' paymaster regularly.

In talking of his work this year recently Coombs ventured the opinion that his success was due to his easy style of pitching.

"I always saved something back for the pinches, even before I was hurt," he said. "I never believed in working hard over every ball I pitched when I broke into fast company I resolved to copy the crack twirlers who had been in fast company for years. I believed that the ones who stayed up there year after year were the ones to study."

I picked out Cy Young and Bill Dineen as the best examples. I noticed that they worked in the easiest possible way. They never exerted themselves needlessly. I think I got more benefit from watching them work than any other twirlers I saw. I copied their methods and tried to improve upon them—tried to be as effective as possible without wasting much energy."

INDIANA STATE LEAGUE OPENS

Games Tomorrow Will Mark Start of New Organization—Rushville at Connersville

RUSHERS HAVE TWO NEW MEN

With Outfielder And Short Stop Great Effort Will be Made to Beat Remington

Games Sunday:
Rushville at Connersville
Cambridge City at Newcastle
Perkins-Campbell at Richmond

The lid on the Indiana State league will be officially prised off Sunday. The fans in the cities in this district will be given a taste of organized ball and from all indications the article of ball will be higher than ever displayed in these cities.

Naturally local interest centers on the outcome of the Rushers at Connersville. That Rushville has an equal chance is admitted by the fans and with an equal break Rushville will come home at the top of the league. The official opening of the league in Rushville will take place one week from Sunday with the Perkins-Campbell team the attraction.

The game tomorrow in Connersville will be called at three-fifteen o'clock on account of the lodge memorial services in this city and at Connersville. From all indications a large crowd of rooters will accompany the team. The traction line and the rooting at the game promises to be spirited.

As to the Rushville team, the lineup will be the strongest that has been on the field this year. A new outfielder has been added and a short stop. The outfielder is Lawson and the short stop is Reggy. Both are experienced ball players and should add strength to the team. Lawson will be placed in left field and Cordes brought over to right. The team will line up as follows:

Briestien, third; Cordes, right; Rohe, first; Schlenker, second; Lawson, left; Reggy, short; Hewitt, pitch; Hellmund, center; Goodfellow, catch; and Clancy, utility.

EXPECT QUARREL WILL BE RENEWED

More Light Will be Thrown on Fight When Suffrage Association Meet Tomorrow

ARE TWO ORGANIZATIONS

(By United Press.)

Chicago, June 5.—More light on the quarrel between the National American Suffrage association and the Congressional Union was looked for tomorrow when the former organization convenes. Sessions will continue through June 9. The main point of difference between the two organizations is the charge by the A. W. S. A. that the Congressional union has urged the emissaries to throw down the request for state suffrage. The organization that met today is fighting for suffrage through state enactments. The Congressional union wants suffrage through a federal constitutional amendment. About one year ago the Congressional union was read out of the national organization. Speakers today were expected to attack the Congressional union methods of heckling President Wilson at this time of international crisis.

Backbone or a Wishbone?

It is always better to have a backbone than a wishbone. It's better to wander a bit and then get back than never to act at all and wish you had. Experience teaches.

Each week for years I've been telling you fellows what I thought was the best thing for you when you need a pair of shoes. Come to the place where the stock is known to be right.
How many thousands have followed the lead, I don't know, but certain it is that those who haven't are few. If you are one of "the few" again I say "Try It."

There isn't a chance in the world it will hurt you. The majority of your neighbors say it will help. If you find you don't agree with them it's a Short Cut Back. I know the trip will do you good.

Next time you need a pair "get started" for once and see for yourself how the going is in a pair of our snappy shoes.

ASKED TO FORM BRANCH HERE

Swiss People Urge United States to Organize Association to Safe-
guard International Law.

Would Make Inquiry Into Alleged Violations as Now Being Made
by Warring Nations.

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)
Indianapolis, Ind., June 5.—Prominent citizens of the United States
have been asked to form in this country an American branch of the Association for the Safeguard of International Law, which was founded at Berne, Switzerland, on November 15, 1914. As outlined in letters
sent to this country by the president
of the Swiss organization, the various commissions would have as their purpose "to institute an impartial inquiry into the cases of the violation
of international law on the battle-
fields and elsewhere."

"A great gulf is opening between
the peoples of the earth," said the
letter from President Paul Moriaud
of the Swiss organization. "Accusations of injustice, of barbarity, even,
are passing from one to the other like
shot from trench to trench. Each is indignant at the odious actions with which it believes itself justified in accusing the other; and vice versa."

Moriaud, who is dean of the faculty of the law at the University of Geneva, says the opinion of the civilized world "has not been truly enlightened by the numerous propaganda emanating from belligerent
countries" and adds:

"It must be sure of the facts, for
only then can it exert an influence;
then only will the fear of its verdict
be able to restrain within just limits
the forces of passion let loose by
war."

The Swiss profess to fear that, up-
less the truth of the present situation becomes known to independent
men, "an irreparable blow will be struck by the war at the very roots
of human progress." Such an impartial investigation would show, the
letter states, "either that there has
been exaggerations on both sides, or
surpassed that of others, and even then a frank avowal on the part of
the independent men would be a great
step towards that reconciliation of
the very roots of human progress."

Moriaud confesses that alone the Swiss are helpless, but believes that similar commissions representing all
the neutral countries would enforce
recognition and inspire confidence.
Therefore he urges Americans to
hasten and form such a commission.

Accompanying the letter is a list
giving the names of those to which
it is addressed. Indiana's only representative on the list is John A.
Lapp of this city, director of the Indiana Bureau of Legislative Information. The list includes the names of:

Lyman Abbott, August Belmont,
Harry A. Bigelow of the University of Chicago; President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University; Andrew Carnegie; Henry Claws, Thomas A. Edison; Charles W. Elliott, Samuel Gompers; President
A. T. Hadley of Yale; John Hays, Hammond; President Grier Hibben
of Princeton; Robert M. LaFollette; President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard; Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago; George W.
Perkins; Ralph Pulitzer; Theodore Roosevelt; Elihu Root; Carl
S. Vrooman of Bloomington, Ill.;
William H. Taft, President Woodrow Wilson and others.

TODAY'S ODDEST STORY

(By United Press.)

Pueblo, Colo., June 5.—Every
city has some claim to distinction. Pueblo, among other things, has the oddest nail factory in the world, making the largest and smallest nails in creation.

The "microscopic" 3-16
brads require 30,500 of them to weigh a pound and half a million are cut in a minute at the Rockefeller's steel plant here.

The biggest nails in the world
the 12 by 3-8 inch spike, used
in bridge building weigh three
to a pound. And they are hammered out at one blow of the machine, 200 each minute. It takes five hundred of the little brads to make the head of the spike.

The nails made here in a year
could circle the globe if placed
end to end.

PLENTY OF FRATS

(By United Press.)

Greeneastle, Ind., June 5.—There are eleven national Greek letter fraternities represented at DePauw university, which is two more than at Indiana university, where the enrollment is nearly twice as large. It is expected that the Greek letter fraternity will use DePauw as a good example for their protection should any state legislation against fraternities be agitated. DePauw also has three more national sororities than has the state university.
